

Cohen Switches Batting Order for Eighth Time

DENVER—With a limited number of players at his disposal, Manager Andy Cohen is making a maximum number of moves in his batting order.

He tried his eighth combination in 13 games at St. Paul last night, when the Indians dropped a 10-inning, 5-4 decision to the Saints. Tonight in Denver, where the Indians will open a three-game series, a no other switch in the lineup and batting order can be anticipated.

Manager Cohen's most recent lineup change returned Charley Williams to the bench in favor of Don Prohovich, despite Charley's .450 batting average.

"We've got to see whether Prohovich can make it in this league," explained Manager Cohen. "If he can't we'll have to send him somewhere he can play, and he can't prove himself by sitting on the bench."

Another motive in Cohen's frequent changes in the batting order is to stir up more action in Tribe bats, especially with runners on base.

The club's leading RBI man is Ted Beard with nine, a respectable figure, but next is Ron Jackson with six, an alarming low total in view of the many opportunities that Jackson has had to knock in runs.

JACKSON FANS TWO TIMES

Manager Cohen remains confident, however, that "Big Stretch" Jackson will become "Big Hit" Jackson at the plate.

"With his power you've got to believe that he'll hit," reflected Cohen. But Jackson didn't hit last night, twice striking out with a runner on third, each time with the Indians trailing by one run.

The bench rest didn't help Prohovich either as he fanned on three trips, but the revised lineup did produce some action elsewhere. Twice Jim Delsing started things with hits and twice he scored ahead of homers. Delsing singled in the fourth and scored on Beard's blast over right, giving the Indians a 2-1 lead. He doubled in the sixth and tallied in front of Dick DiTusa's long smash over left, this time to give the Indians a 4-3 lead.

Meanwhile, Arnie Atkins was showing a delightful faculty for getting out of trouble although the Saints did manage to score three runs on their nine hits in the first six innings. One of the runs resulted when Atkins balked with a runner on third, the second time a Tribe hurler has committed this boo-boo on this trip.

But when John Glenn doubled with one out in the seventh, Manager Cohen made his move and called in George Spencer. The move backfired when Dick Gray tripped to tie the score.

TONY PONCE GETS DEFEAT

Thereafter, at each sign of danger, Manager Cohen replaced pitchers, finally winding up with Tony Ponce who became the losing hurler in the 10th. Mel Waters, St. Paul relief hurler, singled and scored on Norm Larker's triple to right center to win the game.

It appeared as though there might have been a play on Waters at the plate with Vince Garcia making a fine relay on Beard's throw from the wall. But Jackson, attempting to cut off the throw, merely deflected the ball and no play was possible.

Manager Cohen was vague on his pitching choice for tonight's opener in Denver, but he indicated that it might be Bill DuFour. It's Barry Latman's turn, but a finger injury suffered in pregame practice the other day may cause him to miss his turn and possibly the entire series.

TRIBE GETS SOUTHPAW

The Indianapolis Indians acquired another pitcher today, a left-hander from the Boston Red Sox organization.

He's 25-year-old Roy Tinney, who won five and lost seven with Albany of the Eastern League last season and who was on the roster of San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League this season.

The 6.3, 185-pound Mangum (Okla.) hurler, acquired on assignment, probably will join the club tomorrow in Denver, according to Tribe President Owen J. Bush. With Albany, Tinney worked 127 innings, giving up 126 hits, striking out 101 and walking 53.
