The rampaging Indianapolis Indians have pulled into fourth place in the American Association and are determined to hold onto it despite the sellacing handed them by the lowly Louisville Colonels.

Andy Cohen has done a tremendous job in holding the 1957 Indians together. It looked for a while that our home Tribe was headed for the bottom to stay. Then all-of-a-sudden, the clouds go away and bingo—They're back in fourth spot and a chance at the "big money."
