

in before taxes of about $50,000 for the 1957 season, will finish "in the black" for the fourth consecutive year.

Andy Cohen's return to manage the Denver Bears in 1958 puts the former Eau Claire Bears pilot in a key post in the New York Yankees system. When he guided the Western League Bears, they at first had a Milwaukee Braves affiliation and later operated independently.