

Cohen Signs, Completes Phil Coaching Staff

The Phillies announced today that Andy Cohen, former major league second baseman and minor league manager, has been signed as infield and first base coach for the 1960 season.

The Phils' coaching staff is now completed, it was revealed by Manager Eddie Sawyer. Held over from last season are Ken Silvestri and Dick Carter. John Riddle and Tom Ferrick were dropped from the staff.

"We're happy to get Cohen," declared general manager John Quinn. "He will be a valuable addition because of his rare skills as an infield instructor."

Cohen, 55, broke into organized baseball in 1925, and from 1926 through '29 was the regular second sacker for the New York Giants. He began managing in 1939, and has worked in the farm systems of the Dodgers, Braves, Pirates, White Sox and Yankees.

In 1959, he piloted the Yankees' Denver farm to the finals of the American Association playoffs. Last season, Cohen dropped out of the game to go into private business in El Paso, Tex., where he makes his home.
