Cohen Guides Phils To Win; Mauch Takes Over Today

'I JUST DIDN'T WANT TO MANAGE'

Eddie Sawyer, who quit as manager of the Philadelphia Phillies, blows smoke from cigar as he tells Philadelphia news conference "I just didn't want to manage." It was the second time Sawyer quit as Phillies manager during a season. He will be replaced by Gene Mauch. (AP Wirephoto)

'Nice Guys Finish Last' Describes Sawyer's Situation

It's obvious why Eddie Sawyer quit managing the Phillies.

We're convinced after talking to a couple of the players yesterday.

Eddie knew several members of the club, particularly the veterans, bitterly opposed him. It was an unpleasant situation — lack of harmony and little cooperation.

One player wrote me last month saying, "This is the worst spring training camp I've been in, and I've been around quite a few years. It's so bad that some of the fellows don't even speak to him (Sawyer). They don't even grunt a good-morning."

Sawyer is a swell guy, but perhaps that's his fault. To us he didn't act like a big league manager, but as a father who had a pat-on-the-back for everyone. He gave the players unlimited liberties last season instead of spanking a few mischievous rascals.

And when he started to enforce rigid training rules this spring they resented it.

An accumulation of incidents during spring training probably gave Eddie his fill — the bar room brawl involving Jim Owens, Joe Koppe and Billy Gene Smith. That started it.

Then some of the older players resented him because he decided to go with the youngsters. Wally Post and Harry Anderson particularly felt they were not given a chance during spring training.

Anderson didn't play in an exhibition game for six days.

Then Sawyer made an off-hand remark about infielder Ted Lepico saying "He's the worst looking major league ball player I've ever seen."

Lepico, a holdout and slow to get into playing condition, was no doubt unimpressive, but Sawyer's harsh criticism seemed to create deeper resentment among the players.

The Philadelphia club is in need of so many things for improvement. However, the immediate necessity is some hard - fisted discipline.

Gene Mauch

Gene Mauch, the new manager at 34, is not much older than most of the players.

Will he command their respect?

Mauch (pronounced Mock) may be the hungry type of fellow who can do the job. As a major league, good field - no hit infielder he never made big money.

Here's his big chance.

Mauch had better inform everyone he's the boss from the start, and not let the ball club get away from him.

That's what Sawyer did.

"Nice guys finish last," Leo Durocher once said.

That describes this situation.

Here are Gene Mauch's minor league managing and major league playing records.

Here And There —

Eddie Sawyer hasn't got the record . . .

The quickest dismissal of a major league manager was Phil Cavaretta. He was fired during the spring training of 1954 and replaced by Stan Hack. Cavaretta made the mistake of saying, "We've got a poor ball club."

-:-

Who is Gene Mauch?

So many people are not acquainted with the new pilot of the Phillies. Well, Mauch never was a howling success as a major league infielder with the Braves, Dodgers, Pirates, Cardinals, White Sox and Red Sox.

He had bigger success as a minor league manager, piloting the 1958 Minneapolis club to the Little World Series title. Last year the club finished second in the Eastern Division but won the league playoffs before losing out to Havana club in the Little World Series.

This is the second time Mauch has managed under John Quinn, general manager of the Philadelphia club. He was playing pilot of the Atlanta in 1953, then a farm affiliate of the Braves.

Doesn't hold onto them long . .

The Cleveland Indians have had nine players chosen on the American League all star team the past three years, and seven of them have been traded.

Frank Lane is the swappingest GM in baseball, that's for sure. Since he took over as general manager of the Indians in the fall of 1957 he has made 71 trades, involving 117 players.

About a local boy . . .

Larry Thomas, 511 Druid Hill Ave., earned a letter on the Lehigh University varsity rifle team. He is the son of William O. Thomas, and is an ex-member of the Wicomico High band. A good student, too, as we recall.

Batting — Gil Hodges, Dodgers, drove in tying run with a one-out triple, his second hit, and then scored on a wild pitch in two-run ninth inning that beat the Cardinals 3-2.

Pitching — Vern Law, Pirates, scattered seven hits, struck out two and didn't walk a man for 13-0 victory over the Reds.

Dodgers Nip Cards, Share Lead With Giants, Cubs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

So it's early yet and it may not mean a thing, but Duke Snider and Gil Hodges, too old to do it again, and Ed Roebuck, a forgotten reliever, have the Los Angeles Dodgers in first place at the moment.

Snider belted a home run, his first hit of the season, and Hodges triggered a two-run ninth that gave Roebuck his first victory since 1957 in a 3-2 decision over winless St. Louis Thursday night. That hoisted the world champs into a share of the National League lead with San Francisco and the Chicago Cubs, who handed the Giants their first loss, 6-5, with a walk and wind-blown double in the ninth.

A bases-loaded wild pitch by losing reliever Bob (Och) Duliba won it for the Dodgers.

The Giants, who overcame Ernie Banks' third-inning grand slam homer with home runs by Willie Kirkland and Willie McCovey, were beaten when reliever Billy O'Dell walked Bob Will in the ninth and Thomas lofted a two-out fly ball. The ball dropped for a double behind short and Will was home. Don Elston, second of four Cub pitchers, won it in relief of starter Seth Morehead, who gave up a third Giant homer to Orlando Cepeda.

Law, Pittsburgh's top winner last year, didn't walk a man and struck out two. The Bucs, rapped Cal McLish, a Cleveland ace last season, for five extra base hits and a 5-0 lead in three innings. Bob Clemente, 3-for-3, drove in five runs and Bill Mazeroski, who homered, drove in four as Law won his fifth in a row against the Reds at Forbes Field since 1956.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers so far have presented a fairly feeble image of a world championship club, but they apparently haven't lost their touch for taking the tight ones.

They have been outhit in all of their first three games, yet have won two of them — the latest through the rare fortune of a bases loaded wild pitch in the ninth inning.

"I don't mind saying I'm disappointed," Manager Walt Alston remarked Thursday night after the Dodgers dropped St. Louis 3-2 on a curve ball delivered by Cardinal reliever Bob Duliba.

"I'm pretty well pleased with the pitching," Alston said, "but the hitting has been awful."

In 29 innings, the Dodgers have scored just six runs and have accumulated only 18 hits, an average of less than six per nine innings.

Birds Top A's; Pappas Goes Full Stretch

The Kansas City A's learned yesterday that young Milt Pappas is ready for the 1960 American League season.

He became the first Baltimore pitcher to go nine innings as he throttled the A's with only three hits as the Orioles won a 3-0 exhibition game in West Palm Beach, Fla.

He permitted only one Kansas City runner to reach third base, and in one stretch retired 14 batsmen in a row.

The Birds got two of their runs off lefthander Bud Daley during the second inning on back-to-back doubles by Brooks Robinson, Willy Tasby and Ron Hansen.

Bob Boyd homered off Don Larsen in the eighth for the third and final counter.

Jerry Lumpe had two of the three A's hits. Whitey Herzog accounted for the other one.

The Orioles are idle today, breaking camp at Miami, Fla., and flying to Richmond, Va., where they play a weekend two game series with the Virginians of the triple-A International League.

BALL BEAT HIM TO FIRST

Cards' outfielder Bob Nieman gives it all he has but the ball is already in Giants' first baseman Willie McCovey's glove as umpire Ken Burkhart watches play in fifth inning of game at Candlestick Park. Cards' first base coach is Harry Walker (3). The Giants won the game, 6-1, to win the series from the St. Louisans. (AP Wirephoto)

Richards Must Locate Spot For Gene Green, Power Hitter

Where to play Gene Green?

That's the big problem facing Manager Paul Richards as he awaits the Baltimore Orioles season opener Tuesday against the Washington Senators.

"As long as that big fellow hits the ball we've got to find a spot somewhere in the lineup for him. We need his bat," declared Richards from Miami, Fla., where the Birds are breaking camp today.

Green will do little catching, since Gus Triandos is the No. 1 man in that department. But he's also an outfielder, a commodity of which the Orioles have plenty.

HOW ABOUT first base?

"Well, I don't know," replied Richards. "I've been thinking about that, but we have Walt Dropo as our right handed swinging part of the first base platoon. As I said this guy sure belts the long ball — something we need. I'll sleep on it a few more nights."

Green has proven to everyone he can hammer the baseball against any type of pitching, right or left handed. His homer last week in the 5-2 win over Kansas City was the longest of the spring training season. The drive traveled at least 475 feet in dead center field.

His mighty arm is another asset that can't be overlooked. Two years ago with the St. Louis Cardinals, he had 21 assists from right field. By mid-June he had 15, then the runners became more respectful.

Pappas Expected To Pitch Opener Against Senators

Milt Pappas is expected to pitch the opening season game for the Orioles against the Washington Senators Tuesday afternoon in Baltimore.

Pappas, a 15 game winner last season, was 5-0 against the Nats.

Jerry Walker, who won 11 during the '59 campaign, no doubt will face the Senators on Wednesday.

On Thursday it's quite likely Chuck Estrada will oppose the Washington club in his major league debut.

What about Hoyt Wilhelm?

Manager Paul Richards a week ago indicated that the 37-year-old knuckleballer was slated to throw the season opener.

But the Orioles meet the Yankees a week from today in Yankee Stadium, and Wilhelm has always been effective against the New Yorkers.

Dig into the 1959 record and one learns that Hoyt compiled a 1.65 ERA at the expense of the Bronx Bombers, winning three and losing two.

Sawyer's Move Shocks Quinn And Carpenter

(See SHORE SPORTS)

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Did Eddie Sawyer quit because he was tired of managing or because he read the handwriting on the wall?

This was the question inquiring reporters tried to get answered Thursday night before the Philadelphia Phillies, under acting manager Andy Cohen, met the Milwaukee Braves at Connie Mack Stadium.

The unexpected resignation of the 49-year-old Sawyer and immediate appointment of Gene Mauch as his successor landed on the Philadelphia sports scene like a bombshell.

"I just don't care to manage a major league club, or any club," asserted Sawyer Thursday in giving up one of the 16 coveted major league managerships.

Phillies' owner Bob Carpenter and General Manager John Quinn said they were shocked over Sawyer's decision.

"He'd still be managing if he wanted to," Quinn said.

"I'm disappointed in Eddie," commented Carpenter who brought Sawyer back in mid-season of 1958, for his second term as manager. Carpenter at that time expressed the hope Sawyer could take the youngsters budding in the Phillies' farm system and develop them into a pennant winner in the same manner he did in the late 1940s.

It has been widely speculated that although Quinn and Sawyer were good friends, the one-time college professor was not Quinn's type of manager. It has been felt in some quarters that Sawyer wouldn't last the season in this graveyard of managers. The 34-year-old Mauch will be the Phillies' sixth skipper since 1950.

Courtney's Trade May Be Cancelled

Catcher Clint Courtney's infected finger may take two more weeks, maybe a month to heal, and there is a possibility of cancelling his trade to Baltimore for second baseman Billy Gardner.

The Washington Senators gave Courtney and infielder Ron Samford to the Orioles for Gardner April 3.

The 33-year-old catcher stuck a blister on his finger with a pin early last month and it became infected. Two Oriole doctors examined it yesterday and say it may take at least a month for it to heal.

Courtney was sent to Baltimore for observation.

Lee MacPhail, club general manager, said he would talk with Manager Paul Richards this weekend in Richmond, Va., on what to do about the matter.

MacPhail said he had stipulated when the swap was made that if Courtney's finger didn't enable him to play by the season opener Tuesday afternoon, the deal would be voided, or some other arrangement worked out.

MacPhail telephoned Calvin Griffith, boss of the Washington club, twice yesterday to discuss the situation. Griffith told him he is highly desirous of keeping Gardner, who has plugged up the Senators' weak spot at second base.

Acting Quaker Pilot Distinguishes Self In One-Night Fling

Andy Cohen may go down in major league baseball history as the only unbeaten manager.

He guided the Phillies to a 5-4 10-inning win last night over the Milwaukee Braves in Connie Mack Stadium.

Cohen served as the acting pilot in the absence of Gene Mauch, who replaced Eddie Sawyer yesterday.

Mauch, who was managing the Minneapolis American Association club, is expected to arrive in Philadelphia today at noon.

Cohen, ex-major league infielder, certainly distinguished himself in his one night fling, out-maneuvering Chuck Dressen, Milwaukee manager, in a battle of wits.

OUTFIELDER Bobby Del Greco opened the 10th inning with a walk. He immediately stole second base. After catcher Jim Coker flied out the wheels on both benches began to whirl.

Cohen sent Ted Lepico, a right handed hitter, in to hit for pitcher Don Cardell against lefthander Juan Pizzaro.

Dressen then replaced Pizzaro with righthander Bob Giggie, and Cohen countered by subbing left handed swinging Jackie Callison for Lepico. Callison was walked intentionally.

Shortstop Joe Koppe, who struck out three previous times and was hitless, singled off shortstop Johnny Logan's glove scoring Del Greco with the winning tally.

-:-

CARDWELL and Del Greco keynoted this victory.

The 27 - year - old Del Greco followed Harry Anderson's eighth inning single with his first home run of the season, a high blast into the upper tier of the left field stands. His second inning two bagger behind another Anderson single accounted for an earlier run.

Cardwell, an unpredictable righthander, was the third Philadelphia pitcher. He came in during the fifth inning and addition to handcuffing the Braves, belted a home run in the sixth to knot the score at 4-4.

HE ALLOWED six hits, and one run, struck out five and walked no one during a six inning tour.

Curt Simmons comebacking try was a failure. The Braves teed off on him for three runs in the first inning.

Johnny Logan drew a base on balls with one out. After Ed Mathews whiffed, Hank Aaron clouted the first of his four hits, a home run into the lower left field stands.

And Joe Adcock followed with another homer, a drive over the scoreboard in right - center field. That's quite a drive for a right handed hitter, 410 feet and 60 feet high.

The Phillies are idle today, resuming their series with Milwaukee tomorrow afternoon.

"Place diaper in position of a baseball diamond, with you at bat; fold second base over home plate; place baby on pitcher's mound, then pin first base and third base to home plate — and you have scored again."
