

'FINE' LEVIED, PHILS' COHEN WON'T PAY IT

PITTSBURGH, PENN. (AP)

—Philadelphia coach Andy Cohen, ejected from the Phillies-Pittsburgh game Monday night for protesting a double play call, was kidded all day Tuesday and took it good naturedly—until he reached the clubhouse.

There Cohen, who once managed Denver in the old Western League, found a telegram notifying him he had been fined $100 by the National League president.

Andy quickly recovered when some of the Phillies' players told him they had faked the wire. A first offender such as Cohen doesn't usually draw a fine.
