UTEP Coach Resigns

EL PASO, Texas (UPI) — University of Texas at El Paso baseball coach Larry McFarlin resigned Monday for “personal and family reasons,” effective June 1.

McFarlin last week had completed his second year as head baseball coach.

A former UTEP baseball player in the 1960s, McFarlin was named head coach in September 1978 to replace longtime coach Andy Cohen.

“During the two years it has been my pleasure to work with a fine administration and staff, but due to personal and family reasons, I feel it is necessary to resign at this time,” McFarlin said.
