

GOOD TRADE

Margoneri Can Start, Relieve

Rosy Ryan is one who says fair exchange is not robbery, that Joe Margoneri for Pete Burnside is a square deal.

He also warns that the American Association pennant race is more than a three team affair between Wichita, Minneapolis and St. Paul. Count in Omaha, he says, and worry a mite about that old Minneapolis combination of Andy Cohen and Donie Bush down at Indianapolis.

"We might even have got a little the better of the deal in getting Margoneri," Rosy observes. "Joe's arm is sound. He had one of the best earned run averages on the Giant staff in the last figures I saw. He can take Burnside's place as starter and can relieve, too.

"Sure this Wichita club is rough and so is St. Paul, but don't forget Omaha.

Margoneri

They've loaded up pretty well. Omaha's infield isn't a world beater but they've got Rance Pless and his big bat going strong at third base, a strong outfield, good catching and extra good pitching.

"Donie and Andy have done a good job of building at Indianapolis. They've got a tough hitting club. Our

How about the Miller roster?

"We're still looking for anything that would help, of course," Rosy said. "But we're not hurting. I'd like, though, to get Foster Castleman from the Giants.

"We could play him at first base and send Orlando Cepeda to Springfield (Eastern league). The kid has done quite a job for us but he'd be better off for a few months of seasoning. If he ever discovers the strike zone, there will be no stopping him."

THE ANNUAL American Association All-Star game will be played July 15 and only one thing about it is certain. Ralph Houk of Denver will be in it as manager. Houk, whose Bears finished second last year, inherited the job when Kerby Farrell, pilot of Indianapolis' champions, moved up to Cleveland.

The city that is in first place the morning of July 5 will be host and Wichita appears to have the edge on Minneapolis and St. Paul in the race for the honor with the majority of its games in the next month at home.
