

ANDY COHEN GETS HOUK POST AS DENVER PILOT

DENVER, Colo.—(AP)—A familiar figure to Denver baseball, Andy Cohen, will replace Ralph Houk next season as manager of the Denver Bears in the American Association.

Cohen's selection was announced last night by Bob Howsam, Denver, president and general manager, after Houk was named by the New York Yankees as a coach, to replace Bill Dickey, who is retiring.

Last season, Cohen managed Indianapolis in the triple A association and his contract was not renewed.

The cigar-chomping Cohen led Denver's Western league entry in that class A league to pennants in 1952 and 1954. The Bears wound up second in 1951 and 1953—the other years Cohen was here.

Houk managed the Bears three years. Last season Denver finished second to Wichita but won the Junior World Series playoffs.

Reports that Denver's full working relationship with the Yankees may be altered by the choice of Cohen, who hasn't been a member of the New York family, were scotched by Howsam.

He said Lee MacPhail, director of personnel of the Yankees, suggested Cohen for the job.
