

Jesse Owen Due For E.P. Speech

Thirty-three years ago an American runner named Jesse Owen won four gold medals at the Olympic Games in Germany, much to the discomfiture of Nazi leader Adolf Hitler.

One of the spectators who saw Owen's feat was Peter deWetter, who is now president of the El Paso Chamber of Commerce. Mr. deWetter was to greet the noted track star on his arrival today at the airport.

MR. OWEN is to be featured speaker at the Sports Award Dinner sponsored by the Temple Mt. Sinai Men's Club at 6:30 p.m. today at Temple Mt. Sinai. Andy Cohen, a friend of Owen, will be master of ceremonies.

Mr. deWetter recalled that Hitler refused to present the gold medals to one not of the "master race." Two years ago Mr. deWetter returned to the German stadium where young Owen won his events in 1936, and saw that his name is now inscribed among the winners.

THE MEN'S Club awards go to Bob Beamon, who set a new broad jump record at the 1968 Olympics in Mexico; Kerry Pearce, who holds what world's record for the two-mile run; and Lee Trevino, who won the Open Golf Tournament championship.

Identity of the Sportsman of the Year will be announced at the dinner.
