Miner Baseballers Trying to Relax

Andy Cohen's U.T. El Paso Miner baseball team today hoped to relax a little and play good baseball.

Cohen said, "I think the boys need to relax more. They want to win as bad as anyone, but it seems the harder they try the more errors they make."

THE MINERS showed the desire to win by staying out two hours after Colorado's game yesterday and having practice. "They worked for two hours on infield and hitting," Cohen said. "And they were the ones who wanted to do it."

The Miners met the Buffs in the opener and dropped it 13-3 with the Buff's getting eight runs in the last inning.

Colorado hits compiled with some Miner errors was the difference.

THE MINERS left 12 men stranded on the bases.

Colorado opened the game with three runs in the top of first inning and kept adding insurance runs which left the Miners playing catch-up baseball.

The Miners whose record is now 9-8 committed four errors while the Buffaloes had only one miscue in the field.

The two teams played again today.
