

Cohen's Long Wait Worth First Win

Hank Cohen waited two years to cash in on his first college baseball appearance but the dividends were more than worth it.

A 1972 graduate of Coronado High School, the hefty son of University of Texas at El Paso baseball coach Andy Cohen accepted a scholarship at Lamar University.

After attending Lamar for one month, Hank decided El Paso was his home to be and he gave a year of playing baseball up to return to Minerland.

Thursday, Hank received the go-ahead from his father to start against Southern Colorado State College and the younger Cohen responded with five and two-thirds innings of mound duty while picking up his first victory at U.T. El Paso as the Miners downed SCSC 8-4 at Dudley Field.

"I didn't throw today like I've done in practice," explained Hank. "My back was hurting out there and I wasn't able to bend down. That was evidence when SCSC got so many hits up the middle past me."

Cohen allowed all SCSC hits, seven singles and a double, before lefty Mike Hilton relieved him in the sixth with the potential tying run at the plate and ended the uproar to receive his first save of 1975.

"He pitched credible for his first time out," the older Cohen said of his son. "Hank was a little wild with his curve. He has a good one but it was not over the plate consistently."

Hank credited his infield for not allowing the Indians any further runs. "Dave Nance and Glenn Villarreal (shortstop and third baseman respectively) did a heck of a job today," praised Hank.

"That's nothing new," remarked Andy. "They've both been great and yesterday, Nance played an outstanding game at short."

SCSC held a 2-1 advantage until the Miners sent nine batters against losing hurler Greg Graves (0-1) in the third while scoring four times.

Nance began the festivities with his first homerun of the season, a high fly that cleared the right field fence.

An out later, Bob Alsup singled, stole second and scored with two away on Keith Rushing's base hit. Singles by Joey Pennies, Terry Dillingham and Jimmy Walsh produced two additional runs and the Miners were never headed.

Alsup, Rushing and Nance were the big hitters for Cohen's 9-4 squad. Alsup went three-for-three while scoring three runs, Rushing was responsible for knocking Alsup home all of those times with singles while Nance added a double and another RBI to his achievements.

Gray Filly Heads Others

Unexpected Bid has been tangling with fast company at the current Sunland Park meeting. The gray filly has gotten her fingers burned a few times, but she's also turned in some pretty sharp performances.

In Friday's headliner, Unexpected Bid finds herself in a softer company — but she'll have to be on her toes to get the
