

Wacoan Owns Old Baseballs

If you're a baseball fan who likes relics of the past, Ernest Evans of 2001 Speight may have some collector's items. In his possession are three practice balls used by the New York Giants when they trained at Marlin in the early 1900s.

Those were the days of John McGraw, Christy Mathewson, Rube Marquard, Jeff Tesreau, Fred Merkle, Larry Doyle, Art Fletcher, Buck Herzog, Fred Snodgrass and Chief Meyers. The Giants stayed at the old Arlington Hotel and walked back and forth to practice on the I&GN railroad tracks.

Evans went to the Giants in 1928 but didn't get to play because they had such fellows as Travis Jackson, Freddie Lindstrom, Bill Terry, Andy Cohen, and Mel Ott.
