

All-star veteran

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Denver Bears manager Andy Cohen is the first individual in Class AAA American Assn. history to appear in the league's All-Star game as a manager and as a player for both the host club and an All-Star team.

Cohen played second base for Minneapolis in 1934 and 1935 in the league's first two All-Star games. He played for the All-Stars in 1937 against Columbus.

He managed the Bears against the All-Stars here in the 1958 game.
