

Pelican Trio Top Threat

By F. M. WILLIAMS
NEW ORLEANS' Pelicans, who make their last appearance of the year in Sulphur Dell this afternoon, flounders in the Southern league's second division despite the most fearsome hitting trio in the circuit.

Manager Ernie White, of the Vols, like six other skippers in the league, shudders every time the Pelicans come to town for fear of what John Powers, Emil Panko and Al Grunwald might do to his pitching staff.

"That's the toughest three men on any team in this league," White remarked yesterday as he discussed the Pelicans. "They can beat you with the long ball, and on top of that, all three of them hit for average, too."

Panko has hit 22 home runs, Powers 16 and Grunwald five, but the latter figure does not fairly indicate the fellow's power. Big Al, until the late couple of weeks, has alternated between first base and the pitching mound, and the double duty has hurt him at the bat.

In fact, as of right now, he's through with pitching. The Pittsburgh Pirates ordered him to switch from first base to the mound last year and he did well at Mexico City, winning 10 and losing two. But this year his work at first has been so impressive that he's blossomed into a big league prospect at that spot again.

"Grunwald thinks pitching hurts his hitting and that's why we decided to leave him at first all the time," Manager Andy Cohen explains. "He makes a tremendous target over there, he's hitting great, and I think he is definitely a big league prospect at first." Al is 6 feet 4 inches tall and a fielding genius.

All 3 Major Leaguers
Andy, in fact, thinks all three of his sluggers are future big leaguers, along with another outfielder, Gall Henley, who he calls the best in the Southern league.

"Powers is only 25 and that's not old," says the Pel manager. "Panko is the youngest of the lot, 22, and this is only his fourth year in baseball."

Powers is in his third year as a Southern leaguer, but likes to point out this is the first time he's ever played regularly.

Powers Playing Every Day
"Before, I've only played against right handed pitching," John says. "This year I've been in there every day. I haven't made any radical changes at the plate, but I have quit swinging so hard. I've found out that by just meeting the ball, I get more hits and it goes just as far as it does when you connect with a wild swing."

Powers came to Nashville hitting .310, the first time that he's ever been over the coveted .300 mark in the Southern.

Panko, the most valuable player in the recent All Star game, boasted an average of .308 when the Pels came here for their last visit of 1956.

"I'm just having one of those good years," says the stocky New Yorker. "But I've been in a slump since the All Star game, striking out more often than I've struck out all year."

Between them, the three burly batsmen have knocked in 185 runs, Grunwald having 59, Panko 81 and Powers 85. They've gotten 303 hits, for a total of 519 bases, and have scored 161 times.

Powers leads in hits, 117, and total bases, 203. Panko has 104 hits good for 185 bases and Grunwald 82 hits for 131 bases.

Of the team's 478 runs, the three have either scored or knocked in 346 of them. Their total base mark is slightly less than half of the team's.

No wonder they're feared so in the Southern league.

Mr. Gus Captures Arlington

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO — (AP) — Llangollen farm's Mister Gus, running third most of the way, burst ahead of pace setting Summer Tan at the 1/16th pole yesterday to capture the $154,850 Arlington handicap in record time.

Jockey Ismael Valenzuela put the pressure on Mister Gus for a clocking of 1:54 1/5 for the mile and three-sixteenths tests on the turf and edged Summer Tan by a length. This shattered the former American turf record for the distance set by Platan of 1:54 3/5 in winning the Arlington handicap last year.

Mister Gus, a big 5-year-old bay horse by Nasrullah-Fichu, captured his second victory in 11 starts this season after racing brilliantly of late in California.

After winning the San Antonio handicap this winter at Santa Anita, and being second to Swaps in the Inglewood handicap, American, and Hollywood Gold cup, Mister Gus added a winner's share of $97,900 that boosted his earnings in the last four seasons to $403,810.

Mister Gus, coupled with Porterhouse as the only entry was a 5-2 favorite in the field of 12. He returned $7.40, $4.20 and $3.00 to backers in an Arlington park crowd of 30,363.

Skinner Helps U. S. Gain Seniors Finals

DEAUVILLE, France — Nashville's Adolph Skinner teamed with Col. C. D. McAllister of Winter Garden, Fla., here yesterday to help the United States team move into the finals of the International Seniors golf tournament.

The U. S. team stopped Switzerland, 9 to 0, and battles France for the title today.

Skinner and McAllister beat H. G. Yzerman and Count Giam Frabricotti, 7 and 6, in a match where they played alternate shots.

France moved into the finals with a 6 to 3 victory over Britain yesterday.
