

Here and There

An enthusiastic welcome is planned for Gerstmeyer at 1 p. m. Sunday at the school . . . Farmersburg will hold their basketball banquet March 25.

Pvt. Richard C. Bostick, whose wife, Louisa, lives in Rosedale, recently played in the Second Army basketball tournament at Meade, Md., with the Carlisle Barracks, Pa., post team.

He is regularly assigned as a supply clerk in the U. S. Army Garrison at Carlisle Barracks.

Bostick, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Bostick, 1452 South Ninth street, graduated from Wiley High School in 1951.

Wiley High School holds its cage banquet at the Terre Haute House tonight.

Sign in the Dodgers' clubhouse at Miami: "Do not assault the umpires." Actually, it was placed there as protection for the arbiters who handle the Marlins' games . . . Boston Red Sox California jaunt has Sarasota city officials worried the team may switch its training site to the coast . . . Donnie Bush, veep of the Indianapolis Indians, complains that his team manager, Andy Cohen, stays up to see the midnight movies and is up again at 7 a. m. to see the morning shows. "He only sleeps when he's managing," complains Bush . . . Donald Lee, Tigers' rookie pitcher, says that the day he was born, his dad, Thornton, put a baseball into his hands. Proof is that the kid has won 141 of 161 games pitched in high school, college and semi-pro ball.