

This has been a great season ago for mother, home and heart, as far as football coaches are concerned. Jack Mitchell left Arkansas for home - state Kansas because, he said, "home is where the heart is." Paul Bryant is leaving A. and M. for alma mater Alabama because he heard "mother calling." Duffy Daugherty spurned the Aggies because "half of my heart would still be at Michigan State." . . . Andy Cohen, the one-time Waco baseball favorite, will manage first-love Denver next year after tours of duty at New Orleans and Indianapolis. Andy gave Denver a pair of championships in earlier sojourns there, when the Bears were still Class A. . . . Wade Walker's decision to spurn outside coaching offers and sign a new four-year contract with Mississippi State fits in neatly with what one SWC assistant coach was saying the other day. "Wade is a real fine coach but I don't think he'll be moving. He's well satisfied at Mississippi State. He's not the super-ambitious type that goes jumping around all over the country". . .
