Chapter Two of the David and Goliath story unfolds today when the Texas-El Paso Miners invade Wildcat Field for the first game of a three-game Western Athletic Conference Southern Division series against the top-ranked University of Arizona baseball team.

Playing the title role of David is UTEP right-hander Roy Stringer. Goliath is the Wildcat batters who sport a solid .353 average and have scored better than 11 runs per game.

The two teams play a 3 p.m. single game today and wind up the series with a 1 p.m. doubleheader Saturday. KTUC-Radio (1400) will broadcast today's game and the first half of the twin bill Saturday. KZAZ-11 will televise the first game Saturday.

Stringer, a 175-pound junior, picked up the biggest win of his pitching career when he shocked defending WAC champion Arizona State 7-5 in El Paso last Friday.

The transfer from Yavapai Junior college is 6-0 for the season but was used mostly in the outfield at Yavapai. He was listed as an outfielder by the UTEP baseball press guide at the beginning of the season and he bats for himself when he is on the mound.

"He shows good power at the plate and he's pitched a couple beautiful games," said Miners coach Andy Cohen. "Ironically enough he
