WILLIAMSPORT, P a. — Mickey McConnell, one-time business manager of the Dayton team in the Mid-Atlantic league, has announced his retirement as director of training for Little league baseball. The 58-year-old McConnell will retire Feb. 28.

In 1939 and 1940, McConnell and field manager Andy Cohen were known as the Abie's Irish Rose combination of the Dayton baseball team, which was a part of the Brooklyn Dodger farm system.

McConnell helped the Little league develop its Senior division program for youths 13-15 years old, a division that last year had 2,351 leagues in the United States and 17 foreign countries.
