By EUGENE FITZGERALD

Baseball will share the spotlight with basketball in Fargo-Moorhead this week.

Scheduled Tuesday is the second annual Fargo Eagles baseball dinner. The first annual Business and Professional Women's Club baseball luncheon is scheduled Tuesday noon at the Fargo Elks Club, with almost all of the same cast which will appear at the baseball dinner at 6:30 p.m. at the Eagles Home.

The first of the principals for the dinner are scheduled to arrive tonight. They are Ken Silvestri, new manager of the Fargo-Moorhead Twins of the Northern League, and Joe McDermott of Sioux City, Iowa, area scout for the New York Yankees.

Both are flying here but will not arrive on the same plane.

They plan to be here for about three days.

Other principals in the cast will arrive from Monday noon until Tuesday afternoon.

Saturday Ken Blackman, general manager of the F-M Twins, received the first assigned player from the New York Yankees system. He is Phil Linz, a 20-year-old shortstop from Baltimore, who played with Kearney in the Class D Nebraska State League, a rookie loop, last season.

Linz, who bats and throws right, is the only player on the F-M roster who will report at the Yankees' spring camp in St. Petersburg, Fla., for advanced tutoring. He will report at St. Petersburg on Feb. 11.

Scouted by Johnny Neun, one of the Yankees' top men, Linz is 6-1 and weighs 167. He was picked on the all-star team in the Nebraska State League last season.

Twice, in 1956 and 1957, Linz was picked on the Maryland all-scholastic baseball team.

Contracts for other Fargo-Moorhead players were mailed Saturday, Blackman said.

Andy Cohen, former Eau Claire manager, new pilot of the Denver Bears in the American Assn., a Yankee affiliate, will arrive here late Monday.

Cohen will appear with Silvestri, McDermott, Blackman and others at the BPW luncheon.

Peter MacArthur, general chairman of the dinner, will also be on the BPW luncheon panel.

Manny Marget will be emcee for the BPW luncheon, at which Pete Bradbury, new president of the Northern League, will be present.

John Blanchard, rookie Yankee catcher, will arrive late Monday and will also be at the luncheon.

Halsey Hall, Minneapolis sports writer, who will be emcee for the dinner for the second year in a row, will appear at the noon luncheon. His train does not arrive here until more than an hour after the dinner gets under way, however.

Among those who will arrive here later Monday are Tommy Thomas, general manager of the Minneapolis Millers; Tom Briere, Minneapolis Tribune sports writer; Angelo Guiliani, scout for the Milwaukee Braves, and George Brophy, business manager of the Millers.

Fargo Council, Knights of Columbus, has moved up its regular monthly meeting from Tuesday to 8 p.m. Monday.

Principals on the dinner panel will be guests of the order at an informal gathering at 8:45 p.m., following the meeting.

Silvestri is scheduled to appear on Party Line with Bill Weaver over WDAY-TV at 12:30 p.m. Monday with a BPW group.

Press headquarters Monday from 4 to 6 p.m. will be at the Graver Hotel, where admission will be by ticket only.

Bill Early, in charge of the ticket sale, said a few dinner ducats are still available at the Grand Recreation, the only place they will be obtainable after noon Monday.

Tickets for the BPW luncheon have passed the 100 mark, with the outlook for at least 150.

Highlights of the 1957 World Series will be shown following the dinner and program Tuesday night.

A number of out-of-town baseball celebrities from this area are scheduled to attend the Tuesday dinner.

Duluth Nips Hamline In 69-68 Loop Game

ST. PAUL (AP)—Brawny Harold Bergstedt tossed in two pressure free throws with 16 seconds left Saturday night and brought league-leading Duluth Branch a 69-68 victory over Hamline in a tense Minnesota Intercollegiate Conference basketball struggle.

Bergstedt's payoff free throws came moments after Gene Wilson shot Hamline into a 68-67 lead with a free throw of his own.

The victory hiked Duluth's conference mark to 8-1 and all but eliminated Hamline from the title scramble. The defending champs now show 4-3.

Duluth's Bob Monson and Hamline's Lee Hopfenspirger duelled brilliantly in the first half, Hopfenspirger getting 15 and Monson 13 points over that stretch. Monson's long shot four seconds before intermission gave the Bulldogs a 37-35 halftime lead.

Hopfenspirger had 27 points and Monson 17. All Duluth starters hit double scoring figures.
