

Tribe Bat Boy To Be Honored

By MAX GREENWALD

Bat Boy Night will be observed tonight at Victory Field.

Johnnie Bencik of Cathedral High School, winner of The Indianapolis Star's 1957 bat boy contest, will be honored between games of tonight's doubleheader.

The twin bill between the Indianapolis Indians and Charleston, starting at 6:30 o'clock, was forced because of postponement due to rain of last night's tilt.

Jep Cadou, Jr., sports editor of The Star, will present a watch to Bencik in the between-game ceremonies. Brother Pedro, C.S.C., Cathedral principal, also will participate in the program.

OTHER FACULTY members and Cathedral students will be on hand to join in paying tribute to Bencik. Contestants in the sixth annual event will attend as guests of Indians, Inc.

Indianapolis is awaiting developments as player help is expected from the Chicago White Sox.

The Sox yesterday released Ellis Kinder, veteran pitcher, and must drop two more players by midnight tomorrow to reach the 25-man limit.

Ed Szyzewski and Bill DuFour probably will be Manager Andy Cohen's pitching choices tonight.

"I'm not crazy about these rainouts," Cohen said. "Our pitchers need the work."

The Tribe pilot has ordered a workout for his pitchers, catchers and infielders this morning at 10 o'clock, if weather conditions permit.

Szyzewski has a 2-0 record, and DuFour's is 1-1. Neither has a decision against Charleston.

Hal Woodeshick, the big southpaw who went the route in defeating the Indians May 4 although he allowed 13 hits, was named by Frank Skaff, Charleston manager, for the seven-inning first game. Woodeshick had seven strikeouts in the tilt at Charleston.

The other hurler for the Senators will be John Tsitouris, who was batted from the mound by the Tribe May 3 in the fourth inning.

Two new pitchers were with the Senators here yesterday. They are Bob Shaw and Larry Donovan, transferred from Toronto. In this deal, the parent Detroit club sent Pitcher Jack Crimian to the Maple Leafs. Charleston also received Outfielder Bill Wilson in the trade.

Convening in a special meeting yesterday at Chicago, directors of the other seven American Association clubs promised help to Louisville.

An announcement after the meeting said "all directors expressed desire to arrange assignment of two or more players to Louisville within a day or so."

The last-place Colonels, now 10 games out of first place, went into receivership last year. The league took care of receiver's claims and turned over the club's assets free to a Louisville group.

Player help would be sold or optioned to Louisville by association members or by their major league parent teams.
