

Tribe Funds Depleted But Assistance Assured

BY MAX GREENWALD
Indians, Inc., and its 6,672 stockholders still are in business at the same old stand.
At a meeting of the board of directors yesterday, a financial shot-in-the-arm was given the baseball club. So, despite a $55,415.19 operating loss for the eight months ending Aug. 31, the Indians can go ahead with plans for 1958.
About $5,000 remains in the Tribe till but funds were assured, Board Chairman Frank E. McKinney revealed, from these two sources:
1. $50,000 from the Chicago White Sox, with which the Indians have had a working agreement the past year. This sum comes as an outright loan, without interest or due date, as the pace between the clubs is continued.
2. $9,200 from Cleveland as the result of a decision by Commissioner Ford Frick settling a wrangle between the clubs dating from the breakup of their working agreement last year. The money from the White Sox is a surprising and exceedingly generous gesture in an era which sees major league teams shying away from minor league ties. It is one of the rare concrete examples of helping minor league baseball without asking for something in return.
Frick was called on to arbitrate the Indianapolis-Cleveland hassle after McKinney and Hank Greenberg, the American League team's general manager, were unable to come to an amicable agreement.
Basis of the dispute was pay given Infielder Bobby Young and Outfielder Dave Pope during the 1956 season. The players were paid in full by Indianapolis but became Cleveland property at the close of the campaign.

Wildcat Squad Lacks Quantity

Evanston, Ill. — You won't find Northwestern in the top half of the Big Ten football race this season, but the Wildcats are working on the idea that to be the best you got to play the best.
Northwestern will be trying it with small numbers. However, Northwestern, which raised eyebrows a year ago with a 3-3-1 Big Ten season, has a few good things working on its side.
First, there is Ara Parseghian, a 34-year-old coach who is real swoon material. This youngest coach in the Big 10 is a perfectionist and a strategist. He's also a whale of an inspirational leader. So, with only 14 returning lettermen, he's building again—forced to rely mostly on inexperienced men who he describes as speedy and alert.
THESE ARE only 48 players on Parseghian's squad. Most of them have to learn two positions because of the shortage.
Secondly, Northwestern has an ambitious athletic director—Stu Holcomb, who used to coach Purdue football. Stu and Ara are looking ahead and they better know what they're doing. In 1959 and 1960 the Wildcats will play Oklahoma, Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan and Notre Dame in the first five games.
Thirdly, Northwestern has one of the best ball-carriers in the Big 10—Senior Halfback Bob McKeiver, who can do everything and do it right. He stands only 5-4½ and weighs 168.
"He's phenomenal," says Parseghian. "I never saw anything like him. An ordinary man his size couldn't take his beating."
McKeiver, who has legs like a snooker table, can punt, run, block and tackle. There is not much more you can ask.
NORTHWESTERN, which had a lot of luck on its side last year, will do more passing this season. A year ago it threw the ball just to keep the defense honest. This time it has a pair of sophomore passers, who mean business—John Talley of Delaware, O., and Chip Holcomb, son of the athletic director. Chip played high school ball at West Lafayette, Ind. He is 6-2 and weighs 182.
Talley throws the hardest; Chip seems to give his receivers a better lead. Chip is described as the team's most improved sophomore since spring practice.
Northwestern, which opens up at Stanford, Sept. 28, probably will go with this first eleven: Ben Napolski and Cliff Peart, ends; Andy Cvercko and Gene Gossage, tackles; Jack Siatta and Al Viola, guards; Frank Bennett, center; Holcomb or Talley, quarterback; McKeiver and Wilmer Fowler, halfbacks, and Eddie Quinn, fullback.
After that it's slim pickings.
THE SECOND club will be mostly sophomores, but the Big Ten is not a sophomore league. The Wildcats will take their lumps again.
Parseghian figures the race will boil down to Michigan, Iowa, Minnesota and Michigan State. He gives Minnesota the best chance of picking up all the marbles.
Despite the shortage of talent and early-season injuries, Parseghian believes his team will be better than a year ago. It may not win as many games but it will be better he says.

Yankees Get Del Greco In Cubs' Deal

New York (AP)—The New York Yankees last night bought Bobby Del Greco, a 24-year-old outfielder from the Chicago Cubs.
"We got him for outfield insurance," commented a Yankee spokesman.
Del Greco, a fine defensive outfielder, played the past season with the Montreal Royals of the International League where he hit .276 in 123 games.
The Yanks said it was a cash transaction, but that they will send a player to the Cubs next year.
Presumably, the Yanks are worried about Mickey Mantle's shin splints and they want to have a good glove man available to fill in.
ONLY LAST week, manager Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox said:
"I think there's more wrong with Mantle than shin splints. He had some kind of trouble last spring and this could be a recurrence."
Del Greco broke in with the Pittsburgh Pirates when he was 19 years old, but played mostly in the minors. Last year, the Pirates traded him to St. Louis for outfielder Bill Virdon. Early this season he was sent to the Cubs, then to the Royals.
If the Yanks win the American League pennant, Del Greco will not be eligible for the World Series, since he joined the club after the Sept. 1 deadline.
