

Quien Sabe?

Quien Sabe? helps solve your problems and answers your questions. Call 532-1661, Ext. 221, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday or write to Quien Sabe?, The El Paso Times, P.O. Drawer 20, El Paso, Tex., 79999.

Only questions which appear in the newspaper will be answered. Initials only will appear in print, but full name, telephone number and address must be furnished to The Times.

Q. How does a small group go about forming a union?—MV

A. Your question involves much data which only you could provide as to the type of trade your union seeks to organize, number of members, and other pertinent data. The National Labor Relations Board, Suite 1025, Mills Building, could supply you with all data you need in the formation of a union.

Q. On all Coors beer cans there is a note that states that all aluminum beer cans may be recycled. I feel that this is to cut down on garbage, but where in El Paso can a person send these beer cans or have them picked up?—H.E.

A. Andrew Cohen, public relations and sales manager for Dickshire Coors, said that Dickshire accepts Coors cans and any aluminum beer cans from 12 to 3 p.m. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at the company, 203 N. Chelsea, and pays 10 cents per pound. Last week Cohen said, Dickshire took in 30,000 pounds of cans, and during the year has taken in more than 300,000 pounds, representing 6,900,000 cans which Dickshire has helped to keep off the roads and highways. After crushing and baling in El Paso, the cans are sent to the Coors brewery in Denver for recycling, he said.