

'FUTURE BEAUTIFICATION' — Joseph Goodell, right, guest speaker at the Beautify El Paso Association meeting, is congratulated by President Andy Cohen for his contribution to the meeting.

Beautify EP Group Hears Joe Goodell

Joseph Goodell, pioneer El Pasoan, inspired and informed the Beautify El Paso Association at its meeting in the El Paso Public Library Thursday night.

Goodell reviewed the history of El Paso beautification and those responsible for it and quoted public officials who expressed their hopes for future beautification efforts.

The importance of involving youth in the activities of the association was emphasized by the speaker who also paid tribute to those who have done so much in the past.

The speaker noted that although beautification is a national problem, it must be solved locally.

President Andy Cohen announced that the association had gained 12 new members since its last meeting in April.

He also said that five members of the El Paso group had been named to the Board of the Beautify Texas Council. They were: Roy Hovious, Joe Battle, Richard Azar, J. O. Stewart Jr. and Mrs. Malcom Welch.

William I. Latham, editor of The El Paso Times was elected to the association's board of directors.
