

12,000 May Watch Tribe Battle Millers

Huge Parade of 100 Units and Featuring 40 Girls
From Miss Universe Beauty Contest Highlight Pre-Game Festivities.

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—The community-owned Indianapolis Indians will take the field tonight against American Association rival Minneapolis in the season opener for both clubs, with upwards of 12,000 fans expected to attend with a break in the weather.

The Indians swept everything in sight last year—the league championship, the Association playoffs and the Little World Series.

Since then, the team has severed its connection with the American League Cleveland Indians and have switched their affiliation to the Chicago White Sox. The change involved a complete shake-up in player personnel.

Activities were scheduled to begin in the afternoon with about 100 units, including 40 girls from the Miss Universe beauty contest, riding through the downtown streets with members of the team. Minneapolis players also will ride in the procession. There will be floats, school bands, military units, the Shrine Horse Patrol and civic officials.

Ceremonies will continue at the ballpark prior to the game, with a dixieland band slated to entertain spectators.

Mayor Phillip Bayt will throw the first ball to Dick Stackhouse, Jaycee president.

Indianapolis Manager Andy Cohen was close-mouthed about his starting pitcher, but observers believed it would be Al Papai, a veteran of 17 years in baseball. Minneapolis will start Stu Miller, a right-hander.

Barry Latman, one of the prize rookies in the White Sox organization, also was mentioned as a possible starter. Latman was the sensation of the exhibition circuit, striking out 19 batters in the 22 innings he worked.

The Indians' power is expected to come from first baseman Ron Jackson, the 6-7 Michigan Normal bonus baby and Catcher John Romano, both sent down by the Sox.

Vince Garcia, formerly with the Milwaukee Braves' organization, will play second base with handyman Charlie Williams at shortstop and Don Prohovich, fresh from Holy Cross university, at third base.

A possibility exists that Jose Valdivielso, optioned to Indianapolis by the Washington Senators, may arrive in time to take over at shortstop. Jose hit .313 with Louisville last year before his recall to Washington.

Since Stu Miller, a right hander is slated to hurl for Minneapolis, Manager Cohen probably will use his all-southpaw hitting outfield consisting of Rookie Dick Means in left, former Detroit and White Sox player, Jim Delsing in center and the veteran Teddy Beard in right.

Dick DiTusa is the Tribe's only right-handed batting outfielder and like Means, is a rookie.

Wiffi Wins First Purse

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Margaret Chamberlaine (Wiffi) Smith, the freckled fledgling who was the latest of this country's top amateurs to join the play-for-pay golf brigade, has broken into the titlist class only four months after joining the tour.

The break-through for the husky former U.S. Curtis Cup ace came in the wind-blown $7,500 Dallas Women's Open golf tournament Monday when she parlayed a new set of clubs into a 72-hole total of 285 that bested all the veterans and added $1,316 to her bankroll.

That boosted her three notches, to fourth, among the money winners with $3,990.42, one of the most auspicious starts of any of the lady amateurs who have chosen to play for keeps.

In posting her victory she beat off the challenge of top money winner Patty Berg, the 17-year-old veteran from St. Andrews, Ill., who hoisted her season pickings to $4,979 with a 288 worth $926.

Miss Smith, 20, gets off tremendous drives with her 160 pounds and is consistent, if not spectacular, with her short irons and putter.

She posted three straight one-under-par 70s over the hilly Glen Lakes Country Club course before coming up to Monday afternoon's final 18, sharing the lead with Mariene Bauer Hagge.

While Miss Smith's game came apart a bit at the seams in taking a final round four over par 75, Mrs. Hagge's woods deserted her completely and her deft putting touch disappeared as she soared to a 79 that dropped her into third place with a 289 worth $750.

Today's Sport Parade

NEW YORK (UP)—As certain as peanuts and soda pop—things that are bound to happen as the baseball season swings into high gear today:

As tradition demands, the ump's will yell "play ball" and then slow that phrase away for another year.

Casey Stengel will exude confidence and worry privately about Mickey Mantle's brittle legs.

Some guy who is "home sick" will get fired because his boss saw him at the ball park on television.

I'm a cinch to drop mustard on my one good necktie.

A player who goes for the horse collar will alibi that this early in the spring the pitchers still are ahead of the hitters.

Ted Still Something

A pitcher who is shelled out will complain that there's more "jack-