

Bouchee Slams, Post, Malkmus Hit Tuneup HRs

Special to The Inquirer

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 10.—Ed Bouchee's grand-slam home run in the seventh inning proved the margin of victory Thursday as the Phillies played their second intra-squad game of the spring. The blow off Dallas Green enabled coach Andy Cohen's squad to beat coach Dick Carter's, 8-4.

Bouchee's clout was one of three home runs. Wally Post hit a two-run homer off Hank Mason, the relief specialist from Buffalo, in the third inning for the winners. Bobby Malkmus, the second baseman who collected three hits Wednesday, hit a home run with a mate aboard for the losers in the sixth.

HERRERA AT SECOND

Manager Eddie Sawyer, who promised to give Frank Herrera a chance to play almost everywhere in an effort to find a spot for him in the regular lineup, had the big Cuban at second base for the winners. Herrera, who knocked in the first run with a single in the second inning, handled everything that came his way at second, and robbed Bobby Gene Smith of a hit with a leaping catch of his line drive.

Mason yielded the first three runs to Cohen's club, southpaw Taylor Phillips gave up one tally in the three innings he worked and Green yielded the other four, including Bouchee's blast following a single by Valmy Thomas and walks to Ted Savage and Joe Koppe.

CULP YIELDS 1 RUN

Farmhand Danny Casteen, who pitched at Tampa last year, hurled three scoreless innings for the winners. Ray Culp, the $100,000 bonus pitcher, gave up one run in the final three frames.

Sawyer, battling an attack of the grippe, was in uniform, but took things easy.
